

War History

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, July 25.—Those battles that have been fought on the many fronts in Europe are already being reenacted in innumerable studies by men whose business or pleasure it is to write history. The strategy, the diplomacy, the tragedy, the romance, the results of the stupendous struggle, as far as the mill of the historian can, and he is busy making his record for posterity.

The literary talent of the nation which heretofore burned its midnight electrically composing poems or moving picture scenarios, now turns to interpretations of the war as an outlet for its emotions and the call of the divine effluvia. So far, however, returned home who have found that best stories are growing stale in their narrow social circle seek a larger audience via print; while there is scarcely a college professor or teacher of history but has a half finished "Complete History of the World War" tucked away in a hidden drawer.

President To Write

In this last scholarly group may be included President Wilson himself. The president has not yet announced whether or not his own war experiences, so far as he has been rumored from time to time that he is considering the matter and that he will make it his chief interest after retirement.

His war history by the president would undoubtedly be a record of great possibilities for President Wilson is already a historian of great ability, a writer of excellent English, and one who would bring to the task unusual training and talents.

Never before has a historian been so closely in touch with the inner workings of so great a war. Julius Caesar is the best example in the past of one who governed nations, fought wars, and made the record of them from his own experience. But Caesar's wars sink into insignificance beside this war of 27 nations in which ten million men were killed, and in which a late entry like the United States spent $30,000,000,000.

If the president is expected to write the most remarkable war history, the historical section of the general staff of the army is at work on the most exhaustive. One thousand steel filing cases, each containing four drawers, hold the army war college records of the war. Using this mass of information, the historical section expects to turn out a 17-volume official history of the conflict as far as the army is concerned.

Historical Experts Obscure

The historical section of the war college that deposition of the secret archives of the nation which sits in solemn isolation on its point of land jutting into the Potomac a mile below Washington, is composed of a group of carefully selected specialists.

Historical officers overseas were chosen by General Pershing and are attached to his headquarters.

Always Appointed Men

Mrs. John Stair, who was camping with the Maines at Gibbs Lake, was called to the witness stand. Mrs. Stair told of the poor health of Mrs. Main and said that the young wife of Mrs. Stair said that on the day of the suicide Mrs. Main was composed of a severe headache and took two aspirin tablets to relieve it. Mrs. Stair asked her daughter if Mr. Main over mistreated her daughter if Mr. Main over mistreated her. The daughter replied that there was no living man who could mistreat her.

"As her mother and best friend do you believe that Vivian shot herself?" the mother was asked.

"I do," Mrs. Gollmar said.

According to the announcement made by Mr. Fish, he intends to personally conduct the bank and he will move to Janesville to make his future home. He said that for the present he would continue to live in Whitewater but would spend a portion of his time in Janesville each week.

When asked regarding the tonnages received by the building, Mr. Fish said that they had been notified of the sale of the building but he did not know definitely when the places would be vacated.

D. J. Luby, owner of the Luby Shoe store in the Tallman block said he did not know where he would move or where he would go now. He has a home in the city and was not inclined for a time to leave.

"She always appeared to be happy and never mentioned the possibility of killing herself," Mrs. Stair said.

John Stair, a printer, who accompanied Mr. Main on his trip to Whitewater the night of the shooting, when he asked for his story, Mr. Main said that he was almost positive Mr. Main was empty with the exception of a bottle partly filled with whiskey.

When asked regarding the whiskey Mr. Stair said he pulled the bottom out of Mr. Main's coat and took a good drink without asking anyone for it.

"There was only a little left, which Mr. Main drank and wouldn't let it even stand," Mr. Stair said. Mr. Stair added that it would have been impossible to know that Mr. Main had a drink unless a person was close enough to him to smell the whiskey.

Leonard Stair, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stair, was called in and told how he saw the gun in the cupboard after Mr. Main left for Evansville in the morning.

"I went to the cupboard to get some bullets for the rifle and saw the revolver there," said Stair.

Farmer Watched Car

S. Norby, owner of the farm where the Maines bought their butter and eggs, testified that he watched the car standing in the road between his home and the lake for 10 or 15 minutes after the shot was fired.

"I looked over toward the car where my wife brought me a drink and saw Mrs. Main stand up as if trying to get out of the car. Mr. Main took hold of her hand and pulled her back in the seat and the car started," Mr. Norby was asked.

Mr. Norby was asked about the (Continued on page 2.)

Young Wife Took Own Life Is Jury Verdict

(By JIMMIE McCUE.)

Evanston, July 25.—Mrs. Vivian Main, wife of Floyd Main, telegraph operator for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, met death from a self-inflicted gun wound. That is the verdict that was returned by the coroner's jury in Edgerton after deliberation of five minutes. By the verdict Mr. Main was exonerated of any blame for the shooting.

Evanston people, evidently scenting a mystery, packed the city hall, and when the inquest was started standing room was at a premium in the spacious court room. A large number of young girls were present to hear the testimony concerning the suicide of an apparently happy wife.

Physician Gives Testimony

Dr. S. M. Smith, who conducted the post mortem examination, was the first witness called. He told of the gun wound and emphatically stated that it would have been impossible for anyone besides the dead woman to inflict such a wound.

"Do you believe that Vivian killed herself? Was the deed committed by someone else?" acting District Attorney Charles Pleske asked.

"I am sure that the wound was inflicted by the woman herself," the doctor replied. He told of the poor health of the deceased and also said that she was a high strung woman and quick-tempered.

Mrs. W. V. Gollmar, mother of Mrs. Main, was the next witness called. Mrs. Gollmar told of the marriage of her daughter to Mr. Main and said that as far as she knew the couple was happily married. She was asked if her daughter ever complained of being mistreated by her husband, to which question she replied that the only time her daughter complained was one day when she told her mother she believed Mr. Main was jealous of her. Mrs. Gollmar asked her daughter if Mr. Main over mistreated her and the daughter replied that there was no living man who could mistreat her.

"As her mother and best friend do you believe that Vivian shot herself?" the mother was asked.

"I do," Mrs. Gollmar said.

Accordingly, the announcement made by Mr. Fish, he intends to personally conduct the bank and he will move to Janesville to make his future home. He said that for the present he would continue to live in Whitewater but would spend a portion of his time in Janesville each week.

When asked regarding the tonnages received by the building, Mr. Fish said that they had been notified of the sale of the building but he did not know definitely when the places would be vacated.

The army history of the war is to be written in a style simple enough to be readable to the average individual.

Different phases will be devoted to different parts of the war. For example, there will be three volumes on diplomatic relations, others on military operations, and yet others on economic mobilization. This last will cover the broad subject of America's preparation for war, including such subjects as food conservation campaigns, the production of munitions, the making of the army.

Besides the 17 written volumes, 18 volumes of pictorial records will be published. A collection of 10,000 war pictures is on file at the army war college, and from this material selections are to be made for a great pictorial war history. Moving picture films taken by the pictorial division of the army are also to be made a part of the official record.

Method of Printing Undecided

The exact methods of printing and distributing these histories must be determined by congress and not even known whether or not a rider repealing the daylight saving act after the president had vetoed the original measure.

Pastor Detained; Three Children Are Ill

Word from Rev. Franklin F. Lewis, who with his family is visiting at Alton, Iowa, states that he will be unable to return to Janesville Saturday as intended on account of the serious illness of three of his children.

In time of peace, the historical section of the army expects to continue in existence in order to be ready for emergencies and possibly to write the neglected official histories of our past wars. Aside from the volumes it writes this organization will make every effort to prepare a complete record for the researcher of the

Howard F. Bliss

The death of Howard F. Bliss, managing editor of the Gazette, occurred last evening at the age of 60 months of patient suffering, and in his passing there is left a heritage of love and esteem, because to know him was to love him. He possessed that rare gift of optimism and cheerfulness which radiated and was contagious. He believed in living by the way and making each day answer to a kindly God.

Mr. Bliss was democratic, his thought was never for himself. He lived as he thought and practiced the Golden Rule as nearly as it is possible for a human to practice it. His heart was big, his sympathies unbounded, his breadth of vision remarkable, his poise and balance unusual. His tolerance of others views was proverbial and one fell even if opinions differed no less in friend or foe. Mr. Bliss' thoughts, interests, and aims came from the heart and power to reach the other heart must come from the soul—his was that power.

For years "Our Saturday Night" has, until Mr. Bliss' sickness, been a fixture of appeal which in many instances brought the tears to the eyes and a quiver to the lips. He was not a college man except in the sense of the student and graduate of that big university. Nature had loved the outdoors with a keen and lasting sportsman and refused to grow old. His love for the outdoors, the church having served as president of the Cargill Memorial church for a number of years.

Mr. Bliss was born near Mt. Carroll Ill., February 15, 1844 and spent his early life on the farm, coming to Janesville in 1863 and entering the employ of Wright & Hunt, leather merchants. Later he established the wholesale saddlery hardware business of E. M. Matheson & Co., which became Bassett, Echlin & Echlin. In 1852 he purchased the Gazette from the late R. L. Colvin and was associated for a time with Wm. Blodow in the business. In 1855 he was appointed superintendent of the State School for the Blind and was in charge of that institution for six years. Upon leaving the Gazette he established the Whippleton Manufacturing Company in the same building and was successful in making a name for himself.

"My Start August 10.

Indications today were that the president would start on his westward trip about August 10, although it was made clear this was purely tentative and that the exact date would depend upon developments in Washington during the next fortnight. President Wilson today was considering a vacation cruise on the yearling Mayflower.

The invitation to Senator Warren and also to Senator Spencer of Missouri were dispatched by the president during the forenoon. The senators were asked to call at the White House later in the day.

When the president presents the treaty he will accompany it with an explanatory address to the senate. No statement was made at the White House with regard to charges in the senate yesterday that the president had violated a section of the treaty by not presenting it simultaneously with the treaty of Versailles.

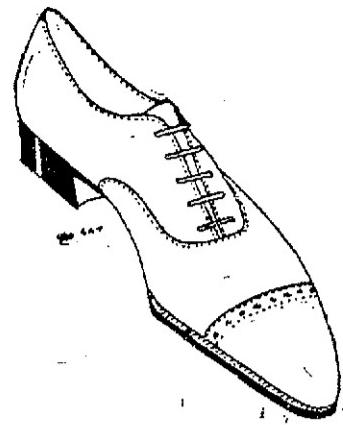

No More G. O. P. Invited

There seemed to be some doubt at the White House today whether all republican senators would be invited to confer with the president on the peace negotiations requested by the senate. The work was expected to consume much time.

Indications today were that the president would start on his westward trip about August 10, although it was made clear this future who wants to delve deep into the record.

The Navy's history of its part in the war is like the army account, in process of construction. One officer on each naval vessel was ordered during the war to keep a war log on his ship to be turned in to the navy department at the close of the war.

Navy to Publish Facts

The navy expects to publish a number of small pamphlets to cover most of the facts of its war history. One book of this sort is to tell history of the North sea mine barrage which was the biggest naval ordinance project ever undertaken. Others planned will describe operations in Europe, naval battles and operations of submarines off the United States coast.

Later a bigger and more comprehensive history, similar to the army's attempt, is to be written if congress provides the means.

Unlike the army, the navy had no elaborate pictorial organization, and consequently it has a comparatively small collection of photographs. A little group of men in the Bureau of Navigation of the navy department were detailed to take pictures. Every ship, too, was supplied with a camera and commanders were requested to send in photos. From these sources enough pictures have come in for the navy to count on a pictorial war history, either alone or in combination with the army.

The remaining arm of the service—the marine corps—started on its official history late in the war. Up until then it supposed that the navy department would take the responsibility of collecting historical data for all branches of the naval service. When the corps discovered that the navy did not expect to do this, it sent its own historians overseas. There they exercised the customary marine snap and soon they were prepared to hand out to any inquirer a historical record which was intended to convince him beyond doubt that these were the fighters who had won the war.

Aside from the concerted efforts there have been sporadic attempts at history writing. Assistant Secretary of War Crowell, for instance, has had prepared by officer-journalists a volume entitled "America's Munitions" and it is understood that others are to follow. These volumes make a record of stupendous accomplishments while the facts are still available at first hand and promise to be of great future value.

CITY TO PURCHASE U.S. SURPLUS SUGAR

Janesville citizens will soon have the opportunity to purchase part of the government's surplus of granulated sugar according to a telegram received today by Alexander Jacobson, secretary of the commercial division of the Chamber of Commerce.

This ought to put a stop to the prevailing talk of a sugar shortage," he said.

The information received is to the effect that the surplus of 21,000,000 pounds of sugar will be distributed throughout the country to be sold at the minimum price which will be fixed by the sugar equalization board of the food administration.

ONLY ONE CASE OF HOG CHOLERA IN COUNTY

"There is no need of the farmers of Rock county being alarmed about hog cholera," said R. T. Glassco, county agent this morning.

"I have made a thorough investigation of the hog situation in this country and have found but one case of cholera in this case near Janesville. In this case the disease is the result of poor serum being used in vaccination of the hogs, and not caused by natural means."

Much concern has been attached by the farmers to the statement which was issued from Madison a short while ago, which listed Rock county as among those counties where cholera prevailed.

Mr. Glassco is making a close check on the situation in this county, and if the disease should break out he will at once notify the farmers through the Gazette to vaccinate their stock.

Yesterday Mr. Glassco made a 75 mile drive up through Spring Valley, for the purpose of testing the hogs in that part of the country.

Capt. Orville B. Swift, stationed at U. S. Hospital No. 8 at Ogdensburg, New York, writes: "Late Saturday afternoon I ran across the son of Billy Mason here at the hospital. Raymond was with the Company M from Janesville. He has been at the hospital since April. We had a glorious talk about Janesville people and things. Monday night I took him home to dinner with me and we spent the evening in talking about old times at home. He stayed all night and came back with me to camp in the morning. He is getting on splendidly and will no doubt be home early in August. I understand that he is up for discharge from the hospital now, and that his papers are on the way through."

Captain Swift is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Swift. He has charge of the religious, educational, and recreational work at the hospital.

Mr. Main said the gun had been in his possession for about eight years and after his marriage he presented the gun to his wife, who told him she would like to learn to handle it before leaving for the lake and he said "I was not in the habit of drinking liquor to excess." "I was never what anyone could call drunk in my life," Mr. Main said.

When questioned by Attorney Pierce relative to the purchase of the liquor he said that the whiskey was purchased in a Janesville saloon before June 30.

"Mr. Main said the gun had been in his possession for about eight years and after his marriage he presented the gun to his wife, who told him she would like to learn to handle it before leaving for the lake and he said "I was not in the habit of drinking liquor to excess." He said that on the return trip to the lake he stopped the car in the road and Vivian insisted that she desired to get out and walk to the lake.

"I told her that was not necessary," Mr. Main said. "I was going there directly," Mr. Main said.

"Did you kill your wife?" he was asked.

"With God as my witness, I can swear that I never shot Vivian, and at no time in my life ever thought of doing such a thing," Main replied.

Mr. Main admitted that both he and his wife were angry. He was asked if he was jealous of his wife and he readily admitted that he was.

COLOMBIAN TREATY
TO ASSUME FRONT
RANK IN SENATE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, July 25.—Under present plans of republican leaders, peace treaty will be set aside temporarily for consideration of the treaty between the United States and Colombia, proposing payment to the latter $25,000,000 for damages arising from American acquisition of the Panama canal.

Chairman Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee said today that the Colombian treaty would be taken up by the committee next week with the understanding that it would be referred to the Senate Lodge and under Secretary Polk of the state department by which the committee would eliminate the clause of the treaty suggesting regret to Colombia for the partition of Panama.

Republicans have held up ratification of the treaty for several years because of this clause, and some time ago Colombia was reduced to $15,000,000, but in consideration of the elimination of the regret clause the original sum of $25,000,000 was restored.

Renewed request for immediate action on the treaty was made today by Secretary Lansing and the American minister to Colombia. Chairman Lodge will confer tomorrow with Mr. Lansing and he hopes to obtain ratification of the treaty by the senate next week.

Topeka, Kan.—Fifty young dentists were pulling teeth as part of a state examination by the state dental board, when a woman entered the room.

"Why under the sun don't you have electric fans going?" demanded the woman of a dentist.

"Well, we wouldn't stand for that, so we took the school board into the courts and we beat them. We got the rats and we organized and we got another."

"During all this time, the business men, the school board and the manufacturers had fought us, fought us at every turn, and with equal interest the Chicago Federation of Labor had stood by us. We always found sympathy there and advised and helped them never turn us down."

"Is it any wonder we allied ourselves with them? We were first. Three years ago when we organized the American Federation of Teachers we had difficulty in getting seven or organizations in the country. Now we have 700 and we are still going. I am glad the teachers have had the difficulties of the working people."

"Is it with school boards? Yes."

"They are true enough for most of them. Do the members of these boards, who have good incomes from other sources, tax-payers and dodgers and all, do these men sympathize with us? No, they don't. It's the workers, and the sooner we realize that the better."

Relics of a Past Race.

The great ceremonial cave or Kiva, where the people's councils evidently assembled, is located two-thirds of the way up the side of a cliff. In a cave inaccessible, save with ladders. The temple is carved out of the solid rock, partly by nature and partly by hand.

Little is known about the forgotten people that once lived in this beautiful retreat in New Mexico, although many of the symbols of a race that was visible in the interiors of the recently discovered homes.

Evidently No Lover of Cards.

It is very wonderful to see persons of the best sense passing hours together in shuffling and dividing a pack of cards with no conversation but in different figures. Would not a man what is made up of a few game-phrases, and no other ideas but those of black or red spots ranged together laugh to hear any one of his species complaining that life is short?—Addison.

Fires Through Heart.

"Before I could realize what she intended to do, she jumped to her feet and drew one shot directly through my heart," Mr. Main said. He then told of starting the bear at full speed and rushing his wife to the lake.

"I did not know she was dead and didn't realize it until her mother shouted that her daughter was dead," Mr. Main said.

"Did you kill your wife?" he was asked.

*The Gazette Stands Ready to

Janesville and Vicinity a Big-

HOWARD F. BLISS.

In the passing of Howard F. Bliss, managing editor of the Gazette, and president of the Gazette Printing Co., his associates and friends have suffered a distinct loss.

His counsel was wise and his criticisms, when offered, were constructive. His vision was broad and his convictions sincere; he was tolerant of others' views and believed that a smile and handclasp were helpful to the other fellow. His religion had much of its foundation on service, and he practiced it in the simple, unselfish, every day life with no thought other than to be of service in the community and to his fellowmen. He was a lover of children and of the outdoors, and because of the heart overflowing with sympathy his appeal touched responsive cords in other hearts, and this power or gift after all, spells for greatness.

He had great faith in his home community and firmly believed that Janesville would eventually take her place among the aggressive cities of the state. His regret that he could not live to take an active part in the program was often expressed.

He was identified, both personally and through his writings and the news columns of the Gazette, with every forward development of the community for many years.

He was a firm believer that the better qualities of manhood, if appealed to, would respond and dominate the human being; and his faith in a friend was unshaken through any stress.

"The impress of a fine character such as his will be felt as the years pass and the fragrance of his pure life will act as an example to those who follow."

SMOKING OUT JAPAN.

Members of the United States senate, intent upon proving to President Wilson that he is not the whole show in a treaty-making way, may bring about incidentally and as a sort of by-product, a very desirable event. They may smoke out Japan.

Everyone knows that Japan got what she wanted at the peace conference by allowing the other powers to shiver over the thought of an alliance between Germany, Japan and Russia.

Not everyone knows just what was conceded to Japan. In fact, very few have anything like exact knowledge. But the critics are fairly sure that Japan got too much.

She was given German property in Kiau-Chow, railroads and industrial improvements and such. Germany had a 99-year lease on the town and neighborhood, with 21 years expired. Has Japan slipped in for the remaining 78 years?

At the outset, Japan promised to turn Kiau-Chow back to China. Later, with the war won, she changed her mind. Japan, the last autocracy, is not so very popular with our senators. Her rulers must be getting restless under the girdle.

Perhaps we shall have soon a statement, a pledge of Japan's intention to retire from Kiau-Chow at a definite date. Thus would senatorial opposition to the treaty bear good fruit.

If we were to find that Japan's intentions are not so very desperate after all, another prop to treaty opposition would fall.

The treaty's chances for getting through without being mangled are improving every day, as we gain more light on its contents and its meanings.

THE STATE DOG LICENSE.

There are two or three laughs in the dog license bill. It provides that a license of $3 must be paid for a male dog and a fee of $6 for a female.

In addition the law states that all dogs must be kept in restraint between sunset and sunrise unless accompanied by an owner or a designated guardian. Hereafter we may expect to see Dad leading Fido or Bruno along the streets after sunset attached to a string. Or if Dad is too busy it may be necessary to hire a nurse maid to give Rex or Tootie their evening's exercise. Any way one figures it, our canine friends are going to lead a "dog's life."

The reason given for the passage of such a law is that it will prevent dogs from killing sheep. This should be extremely successful in curbing the activities of ferocious fox terriers or fierce poodles. Although it has not been commonly known, as far as information at hand is concerned, the sponsors of the law perhaps could tell tales of some child's pet waiting until the sun sets and then fleeing itself to the open road on the lookout for a nice juicy meal of sheep or lamb. They could perhaps tell of the attack in which a 12 or 15 pound dog slew the sheep and dragged its carcass back to its little bed beside the fireplace, there to leisurely munch the ill-gotten gains. We say perhaps.

Of course the framers of the law did not take into consideration that dogs in the country might be the ones that are doing the damage and that legislation which would affect them without working a hardship upon dogs in the city might have been passed.

The argument perhaps was used that dogs from the cities made pilgrimages to the country and were the culprits in sheep destroying. However, the average city dog is at his wily natives.

most of the time unless accompanied by his owner, and the number of those that get into the rural districts are few.

Nevertheless, the all-wise legislators have decreed that Johnny's pet must be put under restraint regardless of the fact that he may be harmless.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

I noticed in Monday's paper the statement made by Mr. Morrissey regarding the coach dog on Court street.

He stated he was informed by the owner that the dog would not harm anyone if left alone. I was walking along Court street with a friend and I never saw the dog until he attacked me.

I never bothered the dog and have no right to that effect. It can easily be seen that the owner does not know his dog as well as he thinks he does. But he had nerve enough to say that the dog wouldn't harm anyone, if left alone. No, that dog wouldn't harm anyone if the owner put a big sign in the center of the sidewalk reading, "Bad Dog, Keep Out." If walking by on the sidewalk is bothering the dog, I am badly mistaken, and I also know that the owner of the dog doesn't know what he is talking about when he says the dog wouldn't harm anyone if left alone. It doesn't look that way when he bit me when I was walking by. I am in hopes that the owner of the dog will see this piece in the paper so that he may become better acquainted with his dog. Perhaps he will know enough to leave the dog alone. If he lives on a farm, he should tie his dog to a tree and take him shot at it. Then the dog would be left alone. But here, in the city people have to walk the streets, and according to the owner, walking the streets isn't leaving the dog alone. Walking by isn't leaving the dog alone, what does he call leaving? There is only one place in the dog, and that is six feet under the ground, and still I'm doubtful if people would be safe then, for the dog might dig his way out. Signed,

UNFORTUNATE.

Some precautions are now taken to prevent visitors to New Guinea from killing birds. In New Guinea, it is the man who affects bird of paradise decorations. The women, like the female bird of paradise, are inconspicuous in dull colors.

To obtain the much prized feathers the New Guinea natives set out for the forest, knowing that the bird of paradise seeks to conceal his rainbow hues in the dense foliage of the trees. If they are not in no want of the desired birds they start calling in excellent imitations the shrill, ugly cry of the bird of paradise to its mate. This ruse is usually successful, and a bird shows itself only to be snared or shot down with blunt arrows.

In mating season the male bird dances before the female, his desire as mate to display his beautiful feathers, and, with such a time, so absorbed are the birds in their own affairs that large numbers are taken easily by the wily natives.

MOVING OF BUSINESS COLLEGE BEGUN TODAY

The Janesville Business college will open for regular work in its remodeled quarters on the third floor of the Carle Block, corner of West Milwaukee and South River streets, Monday morning. W. W. Dale, head of the institution, stated today. The removal of equipment and supplies from the present location in Terpsichorean hall to the old quarters was begun this afternoon. It was hope to complete moving by tomorrow.

The college has been in its temporary quarters for the past eight months since the fire destroyed the interior of the Carle building, although handicapped by lack of space. Mr. Dale says the work has been carried on successfully during that time. An enlarged program will be worked out when the institution is once more established in its old location.

The entire third floor of the building will be occupied by the college. Remodeling has been done to the extent that the school will now have quarters as modern as any similar institution in the state. Larger windows have been installed, the walls have been decorated, and several rooms have been built for the addition of new departments.

W. C. T. U. Drive Over Top.

Janesville went over the top in the recent W. C. T. U. drive and the result is gratifying to the local society. The committee having the matter in charge felt sure that the people of Evansville would put this important drive up to top notch, as they had responded to all other drives within the past two years. Then, too, they felt Evansville, never having had a saloon within its precincts, would certainly give royal support to her local W. C. T. U. association.

Aged Kentucky Pioneer Claims to Be the Oldest Man in the World

John Shell, who claims to be the oldest person in the world, in front of his house at Greasy Creek, Leslie county, Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Is John Shell the oldest man in the world? He claims he will be 131 years old on the third day of September.

For this event more than 200 of his immediate descendants will come from all parts of the mountain country to Shell's little cabin at Greasy Creek to celebrate an event the like of which has never been known in this country, so far as known.

This man can remember when George Washington was alive; when Napoleon ruled Europe in his grasp; of the same generation as Lincoln, Davy Crockett, Longfellow, Whittier, Edgar Allan Poe and countless other notables of America for the past century and a quarter. He can remember when wild Indians still roamed in the Kentucky hills, and can recall when Daniel Boone was helping to clear up the "Dark and Bloody Ground."

The National Geographic society has been asked to investigate and report on Shell's claim of being the oldest person living in all the world. Although "Uncle John" believes his age is 118 in September, other old men in the vicinity insist that Uncle John certainly must be about 130 years old. They base their reasons upon the good authority of a tax duplicate signed by John Shell in 1802.

CROATIAN TROOPS PROCLAIM REPUBLIC

YOUTH INJURED IN RUNAWAY, DIES

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, July 25.—The Croatian troops have proclaimed an independent Croatian republic, according to a dispatch from Agram, the capital. At several points the Croatians are fracturing with Hungarian soldiers.

Dispatches from Agram and Gratz report a serious military revolt in Croatia.

Troops are leaving their units, officers and subalterns are tearing off their insignia and the army is in a state of dissolution, the advisors said.

The railroads and telegraphs are tied up from Czestochowa southward. The Serbians are trying to suppress the revolution by the use of troops, both Serbian and Croatian.

Agram advises do not record any disorder in that city. The state, however, that the independent Croatian republic, according to information reaching Agram, has been proclaimed by soldiers in several of the Croatian towns.

Violent Combats Occur

Paris, July 25.—Violent combats occurred during evening at Marburg, 36 miles south southeast of Gratz, where a large part of the garrison revolted as a result of dissatisfaction over demobilization. Thirty persons were killed and many more wounded.

The movement started at a social meeting where speakers advocated the formation of a republic in Upper Slavia. Slovenian and Croatian soldiers who were present in considerable numbers cried: "Let us separate from Serbia."

BISHOP COMES TO AID OF FORD IN LIBEL SUIT

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 25.—Bishop Charles D. Williams, Detroit, an Episcopal minister, testified today for Henry Ford in Mr. Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Daily Tribune.

Bishop Williams interrupted the procession of Tribune witnesses by agreement of counsel, as he had to be in New York tomorrow. His testimony was intended to refute that of Professor Reeves of the University of Michigan, who some time ago testified that many of Mr. Ford's ideas were anarchist. He was questioned by Attorney Alfred Lucking.

"What is an anarchist?" asked Mr. Lucking.

"One who believes, advocates, and works for the elimination of government, and does so by violent means."

Attorney Lucking quoted Mr. Ford as advocating a world viewpoint rather than a national viewpoint.

"Is there anything else that that is peculiarly anarchist?"

The question brought on arguments of counsel in which Attorney Alfred J. Murphy said that the ideas of Mr. Ford were those of the Christian religion and were generally held by high philosophy.

Bishop Williams is visiting at the home of George Parman.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

When we heard an enthusiastic young person very likely a regular movie fan, complaining because she never saw any pictures of Charlie Chaplin in the paper, we decided that we could not let her young heart suffer any more and so here is one of his very nicest, smilingest photographs.

Charlie is getting more popular with every picture and we are even guilty ourselves of going to see every one of his pictures. Here are a few minutes about him which his admirer will probably like to know.

He is only 28 years old.

He was born in Jacksonville, Illinois.

He attended the Los Angeles Polytechnic school at one time.

He was on the stage for four and a half years in musical and dramatic stock and vaudeville.

He started his screen career with Nymph.

Then the famous Mr. Ince signed him up and put Charles in the famous class.

"The Clogdopper" was one of his first successes as a star.

His last picture was "Hayfoot, Strawfoot."

He is a tall strong fellow measuring up to six feet and one-half inch. He has brown hair and eyes.

And here is the saddest news of all for the young miss: there is a young and pretty Mrs. Charles Ray.

EPIDEMIC OF MARRIAGES

Announcement was made last week of the engagement of Alice Marion, heading the Mack Sennett Bathing Beauties, who are en route to Buck McGowan, known to his shipmates of the Atlantic as "Buster." Buck McGowan is a brother to Marie McGowan, also in her personal appearance with the Bathing Girls.

This is the third of the original group which left the coast five months ago to announce either a wedding or an engagement. The other two guilty parties were Roxana McGowan, Buck's sister, who married Albert Ray, Charles Ray's cousin, and Annette de Grandis, who married Capt. C. Andrews, from Camp Merritt, only three weeks ago. Matrimony is catching.

MYSTERIOUS ANN MAY

Ann May's next part is opposite talker, retaining his mental qualities extremely well, and can relate things that occurred nearly a century ago. He came to Kentucky from southern Ohio—the Scioto valley—blazing the trail through the primeval forests, settling in the foothills of the Cumberland in seclusion.

With eyesight the best, he is able to read the finest of Bible print. Uncle John actually spends much of his time reading—reading the Book of Books. He is a believer in the Baptist persuasion—the old-time Baptist and is a frequent churchgoer.

His descendants, numbering far into the hundreds, are frequent visitors in the old Shell home, and they are preparing for a great homecoming on the date of his birthday, next September 3. It will be a great day in the old Shell home.

He is the father of 11 children. His grandchildren are numerous, and his great-grandchildren go into the hundreds, while his great-great-grandchildren are named by the score. Some of these are grown. They look upon him as the grand old man.

There is little question that Uncle John Shell is the oldest white man living in the United States. He also died fair to live years and years longer.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 25, 1879.—There will be a lawn party this evening at Mrs. F. H. Jud's.

The band and the Guards show up tonight on the streets en route to the lawn party.

G. H. Davis of the Davis house started for the seashore today with his family.

Last evening the Bowery City Belle took 150 couples up the river.

After enjoying a pleasant steamboat ride the party landed at Buob's grove and indulged in a merry dance. Anderson's full orchestra furnished the music.

Last evening a very enjoyable entertainment was given by the young people of Quality Hall at the residence of Mrs. Miner, on Court street. Up to this time musical programs have always been enjoyed, and last night dramatics were attempted. "The Rich Aunt and Her Money" was given by the Misses Fanno Bostwick, May Colvin, Charlotte Pritchard and Anna Doty.

The young people of Trinity Episcopal church held a pleasant social last evening at the home of Mrs. Henry South Jackson street. The lawn was beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns and the parlors were served in abundance.

A. O. Wilson of the Janesville Times started for the east yesterday. He will return before the first of the month with another partner.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My home is in the country, but I cannot call myself a country girl, for I was brought up in the city and am now working in the city. Our family likes farming and we are happy to make our home where we can have our own garden vegetables, fresh eggs, butter and milk.

Loneliness is my problem. When I was going to high school I had plenty of friends and because engaged to one young man. We broke off, though. Probably it was for the best, because we were both so young. I still had friends, but not enough for two or three of them, and we drifted apart.

The average man does not appeal to me. Possibly I am old-fashioned in my ideas. I like clean-minded, natural men and women. Nowadays there are many girls in the world who are lonely and who would make good wives and mothers, but because of shyness and circumstances they do not have the opportunity to become acquainted with men.

I think a decided change would do you good. Go out of town for a vacation. If you have no money to travel for two or three weeks, go to a lively resort nearby. Take books along and sewing, if you care to. Even if you do not make a number of friends, you will make a few if you are courteous to be friendly. The change of air and scenery will be good for you.

You must try to conquer your shyness. You can be pleasant and genial without being bold. Exercise produces health and vigor, and vigor helps to attract friends.

Possibly during your vacation you will meet some one who would like to correspond. I can see how pleasant it would be for you if you had the opportunity to write and receive interesting letters.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When a girl goes to a restaurant or a hotel with a young man, should she sit at his left or his right?

The young man should sit at the girl's side where she gets the best view of the dining room. The question of right or left should not be considered.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

BY JOE SCHLESINGER

A CLOUD GATHERS. Annie assumed a pleasant smile, as if she had received some came word about extra work, or an errand her husband had sent her to do. Took Robbie from the arms of the too-tired janitor and climbed the stairs to her room, feeling as if her feet were treading deep sand and her knees weighed with ball and chain.

She felt sure now that Chapman common had turned out disastrously and that their little nest egg was gone. But the distress of that was nothing compared to her fear of finding Simms losing the good old man. Simms, though a good friend and a bad enemy. Annie knew he meant to kill him. Bernie persisted in his foolishness. And then . . . She dared not pursue the thought.

"What became of that pool you put our savings in, Bern?" Annie asked him that night at supper.

She watched him closely and saw the start, the sudden tightening of his hands upon the newspaper, the muscles of his lean jaw play as he bit his teeth tightly.

"You needn't answer, Bernie," said Annie in a quiet tone, as he kept silent, fumbling in his mind for the best presentation of the case. "It's hard to lose the money. But it'll be a lesson to you won't it? Promise me, dear, on your word of honor, we'll never go into anything like that again, nor for anything—under any circumstances." Promise."

Annie turned up to him and put both hands against his cheeks. When he still did not speak, she repeated "Promise me," emphasizing the syllables with little moves of his head from side to side and a hastening pat or two.

Bernie reached up, took hold of her wrists and drew her down on his lap. He had recovered his self-control now spoke firmly and earnestly, holding her against him affectionately:

"Listen, Nance. Cadmium common was the first one of these things that

THE WOMAN WHO WALKS

The outlook for our pretty young man with pencil point toes and high heels and waist-seams and everything is certainly discouraging. One of these fine mornings he is going to wake up to find himself isolated and alone in his frippery, for honest goodness sake are preparing to leave pointed toes and stilted heels to our pretty young men and the 23 dollar chubus ladies.

No wonder our pretty young man's panties shrink from his shoes as far as possible. No self-respecting pants would be caught keeping company with such footwear.

The Y. W. C. A., with a membership of 400,000 women of character, is about to quarantine our pretty young man and the other morons who parade showgirl shoes on the streets. Not what the "Y" folks said to the sham-faced shoe manufacturers:

"Not so many years ago we gave our admiration to the small, tightly laced waist; today we laugh at it and tomorrow we shall be equally amused by the pencil point shoes and the high heels that like the ill-fitting foot, the war-made low heels beautiful on Fifth avenue, and consequently on Main street; if it had lasted a little longer, women would, of necessity, have gone the whole way with the shoe problem. The shoes of the future will not be 'prescription' shoes, they will not cater to deformities, but will be built to conform to the natural lines of the foot. (Won't that be a shame, Alsenor?)

The national board of the Y. W. C. A., through the health division of the Bureau of Social Education, has started a drive to get this shoe for the women of this land and popularize it. The manufacturers are pledged to produce a low shoe with a low, light and flexible shank that allows reasonable exercise of the arch muscles thus preserving the arch and gives enough room for the toes and a straight inner border. The shoe is to be attractive to discriminating taste, for both day and evening wear. The Y. W. C. A. is going to list and send to local associations throughout the country every make and style of shoe that conforms to these reasonable requirements, so that every woman who really wants to wear the normal line shoe and stop walking like a horse may do so.

THE WISHING PLANE

BY WILLIS WINTER

Jeanne was so happy, she started crying for joy, when she heard that her mother was in a hospital near Paris waiting for her.

Jack and Jane and other friends had fallen in love with the little French girl on their travels while trying to find her parents, as they, too, were awfully glad.

As soon as Captain Brave had finished reading the other mail they all climbed into the airplane and started across the ocean.

A large crowd of wounded soldiers rushed out to greet the plane. The children noticed that many of the soldiers hobbled along with one leg, others had arms missing. Some were blind. Some couldn't walk, but pushed themselves along the walk in chairs. Jeanne wondered if her father would be crippled like these men, Captain Brave helped the folks one of the huge shade trees along the walk they heard someone call "Jeanne."

They turned in time to see a great big soldier breaking away from the group and rushing toward them. When Jeanne saw him she uttered a glad exclamation, "Look! I don't need to tell you that it was her father!" She was so happy to see him that she noticed nothing wrong about him until he stooped to pick her up. Then she noticed that only one arm went about her. The other arm was missing.

After loads of hugs and kisses, such as you and your daddy could have if you hadn't seen each other again, Jeanne brought her father over to the children and their friends and told them they were and how she had been the ones who really found him for her.

The happy party sat down while Jeanne told her father how her friends had found her and how they had been kind enough to take her with them on their travels to help her find her mother and father. Then she told all about her experiences from the time they left Versailles until Captain Brave had received the letter from the doctor at the hospital in Rhodes.

"I am awfully glad we found you, Jeanne," said her father, "but wouldn't it have been nice if we had found mother, too, so we could all be together again?"

Then her father, who had been smiling during most of her story, said, "Well, I have a surprise for you. I can tell you what it is; you will be surprised."

"It wasn't a long wait, though, for presently along the walk came a woman and Jeanne knew who she was before she had come within speaking distance. It was Jeanne's mother.

Now everybody was happier than ever, for Jeanne and her mother and father were together again at last, and Jack and Jeanne and their friends had done what they had hoped to do. They had found Jeanne's parents for her.

For two seasons we have heard nothing but wool jerseys until those who had no wool jerseys made to feel quite out of place. But this summer has seen even wool jerseys swept aside and wool tricotette has come to take its place. The tricotette has a soft, smooth texture to make it comfortable, and is used to make frocks, suits, coats, and is also used to trim capes and coats. It seems much heavier than jersey and really does not make up as prettily except in suits and coats. It is, however, the new sport fabric and the fashionable women will have it regardless.

Here is a smart and practical sports suit of white tricotette. It will be found very comfortable for motorizing, boat rides and other occasions where a suit is needed. The collar and cuff facings and the large patch pockets are of French blue. A long shoestring belt ties about the waist and is finished with covered ornaments.

The silk ribbon sport belt which completes the outfit is also French blue.

ANNIE REGARDED him soberly. His earnest manner, his confidence, reassured her a little, but when he was good and did his hard-working and steady," as the phrase went. The look of the telephone message from Simms had worn off a little. Still she must be doubly sure Bernie would do nothing rash, nothing to imperil his position with the chemical company.

"There's something else," she said: "old Mr. Simms called me up today, Bern. He held on to this pool, and he doesn't like it one bit. He told me I must keep you from ever going into anything like that again. He says he'll fire you right straight off if he ever gets wind of anything of the sort again."

Annie turned up to him and put both hands against his cheeks. When he still did not speak, she repeated "Promise me," emphasizing the syllables with little moves of his head from side to side and a hastening pat or two.

Bernie reached up, took hold of her wrists and drew her down on his lap. He had recovered his self-control now spoke firmly and earnestly, holding her against him affectionately:

"Listen, Nance. Cadmium common was the first one of these things that

A JUST JUDGMENT.

Coming back from his week-end trip which he had spent in looking over the building of his temple where they were polishing the diamond door-knobs, King Solomon never felt less like presiding over Congress. Please Court No. 7 than he did on that May morning. And he did so with his dissatisfaction. As he walked into the court room he was unable to get a wink of sleep and last night, having drunk a brandy-and-water cocktail, I straightway fell into a heavenly doze when the King was sleeping like a sweet little bunch of cherubs, and oh, the crime of it—when she, my seat of a wife, did shake me and wake me up! She might as well be your sleeping potion the doctor sent, dearest!" And your worship, I killed her with one blow of my little poisoned blow pipe, and here I art, charged with murder!"

Wiping tears of sympathy from his eyes, King Solomon cried,

"Not guilty!" by Beck! (See footnote.) "Release this martyred man. He did what was right. Case dismissed."

And the king ordered fifteen thousand shekels be given the man. (Footnote: Abbreviation for Rebecca.)

NATURAL PREFERENCES VERSUS FUDGYDUDYNSMS.

There is just one thing funnier than the queer fudgydudysms even the most sensible of people permit themselves to cherish. And that is the way even the most sensible of people will insist that other people's fudgydudysms are natural nonsense.

What is fudgydudism? It is that in another person which in yourself would be merely a perfectly natural antipathy or a perfectly natural preference.

Likewise, I heard another husband and wife discussing a vacation while they were about to take. She wanted to go by boat. He didn't, because he wasn't strong enough to stand up. He wanted to go by train. She said he couldn't sleep on the train. He said he had to get up early to catch a train.

Was it Horace Walpole who said

"The angels have a sense of humor, since if they had we must keep them constantly diverted?"

Now this man once stayed at our house for a night. I thought I had made everything quite comfortable for him, but did not feel obliged to inquire about any particular preferences for I did not think he would have them. We retired about 11 and had gotten to sleep when we heard a noise upstairs. In due time we discussed it. It was a burglar.

Her voice had a sound of genuineness, very pleasant, and George began to forget his annoyance with her father. This annoyance of his had not been alleviated by the circumstance that neither of the seats of the old sewing machine was designed for three people, but when his neighbor spoke thus gratefully he no longer minded the crowding—in fact, it pleased him so much that he began to wish the old sewing machine would go even slower. George presently addressed Lucy hurriedly, almost tremulously, speaking close to her ear:

"I forgot to tell you something; you're pretty nice! I thought so the first second I saw you last night. I'll come for you tonight and take you to the Assembly at the Amberson hotel. You're going, aren't you?"

"Yes, but I'm going with papa and the Sharons. I'll see you there."

"Well, we'll dance the cotillion together, anyhow."

"I'm afraid not. I promised Mr. Kinney."

"What?" George's tone was shocked, at an incredible news. "Well, you could break that engagement. I guess, if you wanted to! Girls always can get out of things when they want to. Won't you?"

"I don't think so."

"Why not?"

"Because I promised him. Several days ago."

"See here!" said the stricken George. "If, you're going to decline to dance that cotillion with me simply because you've promised a—a—a miserable shamed outsider like Fred Kinney, why we might as well quit!"

"Quit what?"

"You know perfectly well what I mean," he said huskily.

"I don't."

"Well, you ought to!"

"But I don't at all!"

George, thoroughly hurt, and not a little embittered, expressed himself in a short outburst of laughter: "Well, I ought to have seen it!"

"Seen what?"

"That you might turn out to be a girl who'd like a fellow of the red-headed Kinney sort. I ought to have seen it from the first!"

Lucy bore her disgrace lightly. "Oh, dancing a cotillion with a person doesn't mean that you like him—but I don't see anything in particular the matter with Mr. Kinney. What is it?"

"I prefer not to discuss it," said George curtly. "He's an enemy of mine."

"Why?"

"I prefer not to discuss it."

"Well, but—"

"I prefer not to discuss it!"

"Very well." She began to hum the air of the song which Mr. George Amberson was now discoursing: "O, moon of my delight that knows no wane"—and there was no further conversation on the back seat.

The contrivance stopped with a heart-shaking jerk before Isabel's house. The gentlemen jumped down, helping Isabel and Fanny to descend; there were friendly leave takings—and one that was not precisely friendly.

"It's an revolt till tonight, isn't it?" Lucy asked, laughing.

"Good afternoon!" said George, and he did not wait, as his relatives did, to see the old sewing machine start briskly down the street, toward the Sharons'; its lighter load consisting now of only Mr. Morgan and his daughter,

Only those who have undergone them can realize the mental and physical discomforts which many skin afflictions cause. The distressing appearance and the intolerable itching and burning too often make life really miserable. Yet Resinol Ointment, aided by Resinol Soap, generally overcomes these troubles promptly, even if they are severe and long-established. The Resinol treatment stops itching instantly.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. Why don't you try them?

George went into the house at once. He found his father reading the evening paper in the library. "Where are your mother and your Aunt Fanny?" Mr. Minnaer inquired, not looking up.

"They're coming," said his son; and casting himself heavily into a chair, stared at the fire.

His prediction was verified a few moments later; the two ladies came in cheerfully, unfastening their fur cloaks. "It's all right, Georgie," said Isabel. "Your Uncle George called to us that Pendletons got home safely. Put your shoes close to the fire, dear, or else go and change them."

"Look here," said George abruptly. "How about this man Morgan and his old sewing machine? Doesn't he want to get grandfather to put money into it? Isn't he trying to work, Uncle George, for that? Isn't that what he's up to?"

It was Miss Fanny who responded. "You little silly!" she cried, with surprising sharpness. "What on earth are you talking about? Eugene Morgan's perfectly able to finance his own inventions these days."

"He strikes me as that sort of man," George answered doggedly. "Isn't he, father?"

Minnaer set down his paper for the moment. "He was a fairly wild young fellow twenty years ago," he said, glancing at his wife absently. "He was like you in one thing, Georgie; he spent too much money—only he didn't have any mother to get money out of a grandfather for him, so he was usually in debt. But I believe I've heard he's done fairly well of late years. No, I can't say I think he's a swindler, and I doubt if he needs anybody else's money to back his horseless carriage."

"Well, what's he brought the old thing here for, then? People that own elephants don't take their elephants around with 'em when they go visiting. What's he got it here for?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Mr. Minnaer, resuming his paper. "You look here," he said.

"What is in the world is the matter with you?" she demanded, regarding him with little animosity. "You look as if you were rehearsing for a villain in a play."

His expression gave no sign of yielding to the request; on the contrary, his somberness deepened; "I suppose you don't know why father doesn't want to go to-night," he said solemnly.

"He never wants to go anywhere that I ever heard of," said Fanny. "What is the matter with you?"

"He doesn't want to go because he doesn't like this man Morgan. Look here, what makes you and—everybody so excited over him?"

"Excited!" she jeered. "Can't people be glad to see an old friend without silly children like you having to make a to-do about it? I've just been in your mother's room suggesting that she might give a little dinner for them."

"For who?"

"For whom, Georgie! For Mr. Morgan and his daughter."

"Look here!" George said quickly. "Don't do that! Mother mustn't do that. It wouldn't look well."

"Wouldn't look well!" Fanny mocked him; and her suppressed vehemence betrayed a surprising acerbity. "See here, Georgie, Minnaer, I suggest that you just march straight on into your room and finish your dressing! Sometimes you say things that show you have a pretty mean little mind!"

George was so astounded by this outburst—that his indignation was delayed by his curiosity. "Why, what upsets you this way?" he inquired.

"I know what you mean," she said, her voice still lowered, but not decreasing in sharpness. "You're trying to insinuate that I'd get your mother to invite Eugene Morgan here on my account because he's a widower!"

"I am!" George gasped, dismasted. "I'm trying to insinuate that you're setting your cap at him and getting

Dinner Stories

Nora had been guilty of what was considered carelessness, so the mistress of the house had her on the carpet. "If such a thing occurs again,

"Nora," said the lady, "I shall have to get another servant."

Whereupon Nora, with a grin, responded. "I wish you would—there's easily work for two of us."

Mr. Root is fond of telling this story to himself. One day he said to his office boy, "Who has taken my waste paper basket?"

"It's Johnson, sir, the caretaker," was the reply.

Some time later Mr. Root asked, "James, who opened that window?"

"Mr. Smith, sir, the window cleaner."

"Now, look here," said Mr. Root.

"We call men by their first names here. We don't 'misster' them in this office."

"Do you understand?"

"Yes sir."

Ten minutes afterward the door opened and the shrill voice of James was heard saying, "There's a man who wants to see you, Elihu!"

"Even war must have some benefits."

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "Enrietta and I were discussing the Kaiser yesterday. For the first time in years we were enthusiastically agreed in our opinions."

"They say that old Scaddis doesn't know how much he is really worth."

"That's right. If he had he wouldn't give himself so many airs on account of the money he happens to possess."

Chicago Grain Review.

Chicago, July 25.—Drought and heat
tended today to lift the corn market.
Markets were up, though rains above normal. High record prices for corn in Argentina and on hogs in Chicago were also bullish factors. Opening in corn quotations, which ranged from 4 to 4 1/2 up, with Sept. 1953 to December 1.66% to 1.67%, were followed by moderate reactions from 4 to 4 1/2%.

Trade during the last part of the day was light and the general disposition seemed to take a waiting attitude.
The close was unsettled, varying from 1c net decline to a like advance with September 1.65% to 1.65%, and December 1.65% to 1.65%.

Outs sympathized with the corn strength.
Demand, however, was light.
After opening unchanged to 1c higher,
including September 1.65%, the market had the market hardened a little more and then underwent a material setback.

Provisions were neglected. Nevertheless, the market, which at first showed some decline, rallied owing to turns in the value of corn and hogs.

BEAUTY SECRETS!

Whereas

her healthy skin, her pink cheeks, is known to every one,
because it is apparent that it is not due to cosmetics, paint and powder. But the true womanly beauty comes from good health, and this good health is a woman's secret.

Health comes with good physical machinery and good spirits, an active digestion. A body free from pains and aches comes with a tonic known for over fifty years as the best "temperance" tonic and nerve for woman—namely,
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
It can be obtained in any drug store in liquid or tablet form; or

Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract is important. Take castor oil or select a vegetable pill. Such a leaves of aloe, root of jalap, and

Chicago Grain Review.

Chicago, July 25.—Drought and heat
tended today to lift the corn market.
Markets were up, though rains
above normal. High record prices for corn in Argentina and on hogs in Chicago were also bullish factors. Opening in corn quotations, which ranged from 4 to 4 1/2 up, with Sept. 1953 to December 1.66% to 1.67%, were followed by moderate reactions from 4 to 4 1/2%.

Outs sympathized with the corn strength.
Demand, however, was light.
After opening unchanged to 1c higher,
including September 1.65%, the market
had the market hardened a little more and then underwent a material setback.

Provisions were neglected. Nevertheless, the market, which at first showed some decline, rallied owing to turns in the value of corn and hogs.

Goggmeyer, of Boscobel, Signed to Twirl For Blackhawks Sunday

JANES READY TO GIVE HOT RECEPTION

"Bruno" Goggmeyer of Boscobel, who, according to available dope was one of the best pitchers in the southwestern part of the state before enlisting in the army, has been signed to pitch for the Blackhawks in their battle with the Janes Lawrence Janes at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon. This announcement came from the lips of Captain Timothy McCue today after a day of anxiety in which the wires out of the city to the west were kept hot until the final agreement was reached.

According to advices received from the chief of the Blackhawks, Goggmeyer is the best pitcher to be found in this section of the state. He has just received his discharge from the service at Camp Grant after a year spent overseas. While in France he was used in athletic circles. He pitched for a service team over there for several months, and says he is in A-1 shape for business.

The Janes say they will make the big heavier think he is back in the war zone when they open up with war clubs, for bombardment of one, two and three base hits. Whether Goggmeyer will be forced to surrender or the battle is over in favor of Muller or Leo Fleming remains to be seen. To hold up the big fellow's fast ones, McCue will probably perform in back of the plate.

The rest of the Hawks' line-up remains in doubt, but it is probable that Manager Doran will have down the initial sack with Babe Sullivan on second and Eddie Butters on the far corner. Mike Riley, a Woodstock star, will probably cover short with Butters. Muller, Fleming, Jackson and Smith slated for the outfield.

Manager Murphy of the Janes today announced his line-up as being the same as that which trounced Footville, 7 to 0, last Sunday. This means that old, reliable Sam Lengueras will be on the hill with Tommy Crooks behind the bat. Pivott at short, German on first, Miller at second and "Marty" Bond on third. Sachs, Kastko, Vinyard and Dopp will cavor in the garden.

The two managers have agreed that the admission price announced shall include war tax and grandstand.

GROUNDER

Tommy Murphy, Poughkeepsie reishman of the Grand circuit, has a substantial start on his annual pilgrimage for the chief honors on the big hill.

Mike O'Dowd, recognized as middleweight champion, will not fight Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, before next November. He says he wants to prepare for Greb.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association report a greater tennis than the net game this season than ever before.

Ohio legislators will be asked to consider a law providing for a racing commission and legalized betting on Par-Mutuel machines, as one means of raising money to replace that formerly paid in by the saloons.

Manager Pat Moran of the Cincinnati team will take an offer to President Barker for the release of Pitcher Eddie Rixey. Moran says he can only give cash for the player.

Francis Ouimet says Walter Hagen deserved to win the open championship, because he played the most remarkable golf ever seen in that event in this country.

Omar Khayyam, great American running horse, will be permanently retired to the breeding industry. He was temporarily retired last year because of a leg injury.

Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, says Jack Dempsey would be the easiest kind of picking for any of the heavy champs of a few years ago, because Dempsey is a rushing, plunging battler.

The new manager of the Cleveland Indians, succeeding Leo Fohl, resigned, told Cleveland fans he will win the pennant this year if they will give him their complete support.

Roger Bresnahan, president of the Toledo club in the American Association, plans to retire from baseball at the close of the present season, if he can extract some of his original investment from the club.

Panthers Will Meet Willowdale, Sunday

The Upland Panthers will play Willowdale on the Third street diamond Sunday afternoon, for the second time this season. The Panthers invaded Willowdale two weeks ago and came home with a 13-10 victory. They declare they are out to make it two straight.

JEFFERSON TEAM

WINS OVER WEBSTER

The senior Jefferson baseball team won from the Webster senior team last night in a game which had been looked forward to for a long time. The game was played at the Webster grounds and ended with a score of 10-2. The Webster team was ahead for the first part of the game. At the end of the fourth inning the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of the Webster, but in the fifth the Jefferson made five runs and in the sixth made five more.

Nowlan, the Jefferson pitcher, was the star player. Koebler of the Jefferson made one home run while Sherman made one for the Webster. The figures follow:

Webster—M. Dawson, lf; Dicker-son, c; Clark, 1b; J. Cullen, ss; Gokey, 3b; Kelley, r; R. Cullen, ss; Gokey, 3b; Sheridan, 2b; Zahn and R. Leary, rf.

Jefferson—Raubach, cf; Flaery, 1b; Nowlan, p; Scoville, 2b; Nuzum, cf; Brecher, lf; McDermott, ss; Koebler, 3b; Thomas, rf.

Another senior game was played last night between the Adams and Washington teams at the Adams grounds. The Washington won the game by one point, the final score being 21 to 20. In the eighth inning the Adams was ahead by three points. Home runs for the Adams were made by the following: Anderson, three; Babcock, one; Schulz, one; and Woodring, one.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE

Praises for Jack Dempsey for the way in which he took advice during his training for the fight with Jess Willard and the assertion that he is the best heavyweight of all time are rendered by Jimmy De Forest, who trained the new champion for the bout. De Forest recently arrived at his home in Long Beach after spending a week with Dempsey at Cincinnati, where he appeared with a circus.

D. Worst also gives Willard credit for the way he stood up against Dempsey. "The oxlike punches of the new champion were terrific and it took a man with plenty of grit to stand up under them after being mauled about an Willard was, according to the veteran trainer."

It is really disheartening to me to hear anybody say Jess quit," says De Forest. "The remarkable part of the whole affair was that Willard lasted three rounds. He took a frightening beating, many of his teeth being removed at different times, in addition to being floored often. Jess is as game a man as ever entered the ring, and I bar nobody when I make that statement."

The weak spot in the Cleveland bill club is shown by the fact the 36 games this season, up to a recent date, it had been found necessary to derive the pitcher selected to start each game, and on 26 of those occasions the original pitcher might just as well have been chosen to take his medicine in nine innings—because the game was rescued only eight times.

These figures were compiled just before Fohr resigned. Thirty-two times he picked the right pitcher. That is to say, his selection lasted through the game and won. Six times he picked a pitcher who lasted until the final, but was unable to win. Bagby and Coeleskie are the shining lights. When these gents are good they are superb. Jim had gone through 11 victories when these figures were compiled. Bagby never lost a game that he pitched throughout and Coeleskie losing but one out of 13 such contests. On the other hand, when these gentlemen are bad, there is a little or no hope. Together they were dead in a total of 11 times, and of those games went fuzzy.

McGorton's record has one redeeming feature. When he is lifted, there is still a chance for salvage. Nine times he has been sent to the showers, and three of those games were saved. Both of the games which Enzmann started and did not finish were won by the Indians.

Here's the record. The first two

MRS. HARRIS LOSES CHANCE FOR TITLE

Miss Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, 1918 state women's golf champion, defeated Mrs. A. J. Harris, this city, in their semi-final match of the women's state championship play at the Racine Country club yesterday. The final score was 4 up and 3 to play.

By virtue of her victory Miss Hadfield gained the right to defend her title against Miss Bessie Green, Milwaukee, in the final championship match today.

Mrs. Harris played even with her opponent for the first nine holes, but at the tenth Miss Hadfield pulled away. After that she was never in danger.

Another senior game was played last night between the Adams and Washington teams at the Adams grounds. The Washington won the game by one point, the final score being 21 to 20. In the eighth inning the Adams was ahead by three points.

Home runs for the Adams were made by the following: Anderson, three; Babcock, one; Schulz, one; and Woodring, one.

The lineup was as follows: Adams

—Anderson, c; Babcock, p; Woodring, 1b; Lenz, 2b; Burnham, 3b; Schulz, lf; Gardner, cf; Hitchcock, rf.

Washington—Monson, c; H. Lawrence, 1b; Wilson, p; Schulz, 2b; O'Donnell, 3b; Dabson, lf; E. Lawrence, cf; Gridley, rf; Holcomb, ss.

The End.

We cannot see the end from the beginning, but as long as we can see the beginning, whether it be the year we are entering, or some day that is required of us, we see enough—one step at a time—and we know, that we shall be so guided on to the end. If we sit down and wait for the whole plan to unfold before our view, we shall wait endlessly.

Animal and Brute.
Broadly speaking, an animal is any living organism other than a plant, a creature that has some mode of reproduction, and of respiration. The term "brute" refers to one of the higher quadrupeds, such as cows, horses, dogs, or to any animal lower than man. In a restricted sense the term "animal" is often used as a synonym for "brute."

Freedom Through the Truth

By ROBERT McWATTY RUSSELL, D. D.
Professor of Biblical Doctrine and Homiletics
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.—John 3:18

Knowledge of the truth concerning God and man as revealed in the Scriptures has ever been the source of freedom in the world struggle for civil and religious liberty. When man knows his true relation to God he refuses to be a slave, and when men know their true relation to one another they cease effort to enslave one another. Horace Greeley well said, "It is impossible to enslave a Bible reading people." When Jesus said, "The truth shall make you free," he referred to truth which centers in his own personality. In John's gospel he says, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life; no man cometh to the Father but by me." Again he said: "If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." The truth which is the source of freedom is thus not a principle, but a person. The so-called Christian living of all ages has been marred by substituting things for Christ himself: a creed for a Christ, a system for a Savior, a plan of redemption for a Redeemer, or even the church for Christ himself. Thus thousands have joined the churches with no more spiritual experience of union with Christ than if they had joined the Grangers or Elks.

Freedom From the Guilt of Sin.
Knowledge of the incarnate, sin-bearing Christ and the personal acceptance of him as Savior brings freedom from the guilt of sin. We shall never in this life measure the full meaning of Christ's death, but Bethlehem, Gethsemane, Calvary and Olivet bear the footprints of our Father God seeking lost humanity through his only begotten son, Jesus Christ. Freedom from guilt is secured, by accepting the finished work of Christ.

The Teacher's Lantern
Knowledge of the sinless and triumphant Christ and surrender of one's life to his control, through the Spirit, is the source of freedom from the power of sin. No truth is more plainly taught in the gospel than that Jesus saved his people from their sins by the indwelling of his very life in them. The union of believers to Christ is as vital and real as the union of the branch with the vine. "Believers are to live as indwelt and energized by Christ's life and to be fruit-bearers through his life." "Walk in the Spirit and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh" is the divine injunction. Christ within brings victory over sin. His holy fire will blaze and burn and cleanse, and even turn our temptations into sources of power.

Freedom From the Fear of Death.
Knowledge of Christ as Victor over death and as our risen and ascended Lord gives freedom from bondage to the fear of death. Death is a fearful thing apart from fellowship with Christ. But knowing of Christ's triumph over death, and trusting his faithfulness and power we have no need to fear. On a night of darkness and storm a Christian physician was called upon to visit a dying friend. He made the journey through rain and sleet and entered the lighted room where the friend was dying. The man, though a professing Christian, was not dead in faith and was not without fear. Frankly he said: "I feel that I am going out into unknown realms; and I dread it." Just then the physician's little dog whined and scratched at the door for admission. The physician said: "My little dog has never been at this door before, and knows nothing of what is to be found within this room, but he knows that I, his master and human friend, am here, so he is not afraid, but yearns to enter." The dying man caught the meaning and rested his hope on the waiting Christ.

Because of what Christ is and because of where he is, we can be free from the bondage of fear as we face the future. He is the ascended Savior and is preparing a place for us. He is the interceding Savior and knows the help we need in time of trial. He is the glorified Savior and will share his glory with us. Heaven's light will be the gladness of his countenance. Is it not enough that he has said: "Whoso serveth me, him will my Father honor; and where I am there shall also my servant be?"

The Chemistry of Ethics.

The pathway of God to our heart is through another heart. John Smith or Mary Jones may possess that heart. Every atom in the universe acts on every other atom. But each atom acts most strongly on the atom that is nearest. The big things in life are accomplished by those who are faithful in the matter of the little things. The duty for every man and woman is the next duty. In the last analysis the mountains all reduce to grains and the ocean to drops. If the world is beautiful in its vastness it is because it is beautiful in its atoms.—Christian Herald.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS
Third Quarter: Lesson IV: Philipians IV 10-20; July 27 1919.

Golden Text: If we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another.—1 John 1:7.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Here is an anatomy of Christian fellowship. The sculptor in Paul's skillful hands lays the open and dissects it. The constancy of affection in the Philippians converts toward himself was unbroken, although it did not always have the opportunity to express itself. They kept putting themselves in his place. When he suffered they sympathized. The apostle does not parade his want. Contentment and care of Christ's strengthening is compensation and cure of every ill. Yet it was well that they sent him their gifts for these were the tangible evidence of that fruitfulness which was the result of the Holy Spirit's culture. Sweet is the incense of friendship! It pleases God. He will reward it. Even need of the Philippians was supplied as far as possible by the apostles. It is a paraphrase of the saying "Give and it shall be given unto you"—Hence in miniature is that new social group of men, women and children, the like of which the world had never seen before, and whose bond of union is a great faith, and great love, realizing the essence of Christ's teaching in so large a measure as to cause the admiring exclamation "Behold how these Christians love one another!" It is this fellowship which is the realization of the very essence of Christ's message. "God, Father: Men who recognize his fatherhood, brothers, friends, etc., are something broader, stronger, finer, of higher order than ordinary friendship, which rests upon natural affinity and liking, and is in large measure a matter of temperament. Such is scarcely ever free from a certain commercial tinge, which though it may not consciously ask the question "What do I get out of this?" yet to all intents is a trader, dryying a bargan in friendly Christian fellowship shows a superiority in that it can unite people whose temperaments are naturally antagonistic and all whose training and traditions have been entirely different, into a fellowship wholly altruistic and disinterested. The uniqueness of this situation is further manifest from the fact that it is not a mere matter of privilege which one may accept or decline by his choices, but is a part of the life, and of the very substance of religion itself.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN

Emergence into the light is the condition of this sacred comradeship. Only those who walk in heavenly light have this fellowship with their Master. So in earthly fellowship is the evidence of the change, and one may know he has passed from death to life because he loves those who have made the same passage. Bad traits are cultivated by bad comradeship. If you walk with the lame you will learn to limp. The reverse is true; good traits are created and cultivated by good life by associating with those who are attempting the same thing. The text "How good and pleasant a thing it is for brethren to live together in unity" is said to have suggested the monastic life of the friars. Friendship is the greatest glory which is its flawlessness. Friendship is a cadence of divine melody melting through the heart. Friendships of high spirits lose nothing by death but alloy... Friends not only live in harmony but in melody... Man in society is like a flower blown in its native bed... Sudden intrusions are always shallow wells quickly dug, and quickly dry... Although a cracked friendship like a cracked umbrella may be mended, the moment you put it in hot water the bottom will fall out... A friend loveth at all times but a brother is born for adversity... His Majesty, Mutsuhito, Emperor of Japan, wrote the following lines for the students of the Peiresse's School (translated by Arthur Lloyd):

The water placed in goblet, bowl or cup

Changes its form to its receptacle, And so our plastic souls take various shapes.
The characters of good or ill, to fit The good or evil in the friends we choose.
Therefore be ever careful in your choice of friends.
And let your special love be given to those Whose strength of character may prove a whip That drives you ever to fair wisdom's goal.

HOW DO MEN CONFESS CHRIST AND HOW DO THEY DENY HIM?

After service in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York City, one Sunday morning, Dr. George H. Miller, pastor, entered the pastor's study and said to him in an open manly way, "I believe the doctrines you preach. May I have the privilege of saying so to the congregation next Sunday, and of joining the church?" That was Theodore Roosevelt. He remained an outspoken, consistent Christian to the end. Very dignified, calm and devout hymn singing.

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord

Is laid for your faith in his excellent word!

Milch Goats to Feature Elkhorn Fair Exhibits

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE).

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of John Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly habit of smoking. Stop the habit now, before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and take those as directed and for the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Drugists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting advertisements. Doctor Connor's name appears in this paper. It tells of the dangers of nicotine, the poison in tobacco, and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets. You will be surprised at the results. Advertisement.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE).

Reynolds, commander of the Lake Geneva post, will be present at the meeting, and will explain the objects of the society.

STREET CAR HEARINGS
ADJOURNED TO AUG. 4

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, July 25.—Representatives of electric railway interests today completed their testimony before the federal electric railway commission after nine days during which practically every phase of the situation from a company viewpoint had been developed. Tonight the commission will adjourn to August 4 when it will hear the testimony of Secretary Baker and others. A short recess will be taken to August 11.

Featuring the final day's testimony was a concrete plan of relief offered by Harlow C. Clark, New York, editor of a street railway men's magazine. Included in Mr. Clark's recommendations were these suggestions:

Immediate temporary relief by increased fares subject to revision later.

Adoption of a plan for the permanent conduct of the street railway business state or municipal regulation. This plan to include machinery for determining a just return based on the interests of both investors and public establishment of a system of charges for service by which rates would automatically increase and decrease to meet new exigencies; operators to be permitted to share in the earnings; extensions, improvements, and other betterments to be regulated by a state or municipal body.

AUSTRIAN TREATY MAKES NO IMPRESSION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Vienna, Thursday, July 24.—The new terms of the Austrian peace treaty are making no special impression on the general public. The newspapers, however, remark that the world is still attempting to treat Austria as a great state instead of one which has lost five-sixths of her territory and been reduced from a great empire of 55,000,000 persons to six million, who are facing a winter in which hundreds of thousands are sure to die of famine or cold.

The New Freie Presse says:

"The Allies wish to force Austria into bankruptcy and thereby get a prior claim on her income which will be applied to damages and reparations."

Dr. Karl Renner, the German Austrian chancellor, and head of the peace delegation which visited St. Germain in an interview published here says:

"We are invited to an American ducal court, we have the option of shooting ourselves or of being shot. Within the next 10 days the Austrian delegates must furnish proofs that Austria is willing to pay with assets which are non-existent."

PULP WOOD SCALING SUPERVISOR NAMED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, July 25.—Although chapter 191 of the laws of 1919, which creates the office of supervisor of pulp wood scaling, provides that the supervisor shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for a term of two years from the date of his appointment, it is doubtful if the appointment of Eugene Taylor, Ashland, formerly of Appleton, which was sent to the senate Tuesday evening, will be considered by the senate before the 1921 session unless a special session is held, as it is not expected a sufficient number of members will again be present at this session for a quorum.

The creation of the office is an entirely new department in Wisconsin, but was done for the protection of both the pulp wood shippers and the pulp mills. Controversies between the shippers to go out of business and the mills as to the amount of pulp wood received, is said to have caused many shippers to go out of business and brought a shortage of pulp wood, that has affected the price of paper, therefore affecting the general public. The new law is presumed to end these controversies.

Old N. G. Officers Are Invited to Camp

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, July 25.—Adj. Gen. Orland Holway has sent an invitation to all former officers of the old Wisconsin National guard who saw service overseas to attend the coming encampment of the state guard at Camp Douglas at any time between July 26 and Aug. 28, but it is expected most of them will accompany the state guard troops from their home cities to camp.

The object of the adjutant general in inviting the overseas officers to come with the state guard is twofold.

He wants to use them as instructors in the officers' schools and to consult with them as to the re-organization of their old companies.

Efforts to Settle Car Strike Are Continued

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago, July 26.—Efforts to settle differences between 15,000 employees of street car and elevated lines, and heads of the companies, were continued today at joint meeting of union officials and heads of the traction companies with the state public utility commission.

The men demand a wage increase of 37 cents an hour over the present rate of 48 cents, time and a half for overtime and an 8-hour day.

The railway officials have announced that any raise in wages is contingent on an increase in fares which they have asked the public utilities to authorize.

Bulgarian Peace Envoy
